

Breathing Apparatus Training

Health & Safety Regulations require that “Employees should be trained in the use of and maintenance of any protective clothing and equipment they should use”. (Guidelines for the provision of facilities and general safety and health in commercial and industrial premise; 3.1, Protective Clothing and Equipment).

Fire & Hazard Training Services have been offering workplace fire safety and breathing apparatus training in Canterbury since 1997. Our qualified team of instructors have extensive practical fire-fighting and search and rescue experience that adds value to the quality of the training sessions.

Breathing apparatus courses have been developed to provide three levels of training to suit workplace requirements. All courses can be tailored to suit individual workplace situations

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS
